THE PEOPLE SHOULD HAVE VOICE IN THEIR GOVERNMENT

PEOPLE SHOULD BE ALLOWED VOTE ON ORDINANCES

Every Endeavor Should Be Made To Bring Ordinances Of Importance To A Popular Vote.

The average citizen of Daly City is at a loss to understand the motives which prompt the desperate efforts being made to prevent submission of the" Civil Service Ordinance " to a vote of all the electors.

Last week circulation of petitions asking that this measure be sent to a vote of the people at the coming city election was begun.

Immediately there appeared a circular purporting to be signed by all members of the Fire Department. Some excerpts from this circular are here quoted:

"We have all the confidence in the world in the judgment of the public when they are properly informed and have all the facts before them," etc.

Another paragraph reads: "You may be asked to sign a petition. In fairness to your fire boys, we feel confident that you will not do so. However, if through any circumstances, representations or misrepresentations, you are led to believe that it would be a good thing to do, may we respectfully request that you give us a chance to further present our case before you finally sign your name."

What better chance to further present the case than to hold up operation of the ordinance by referendum petition for two months; that would give the firemen ample time to explain their position. They should be willing to expedite obtaining of signatures.

Let us have the facts and all the facts, so the people can vote intelligently.

LOTS OF SMOKE AND LITTLE FIRE RAISES RUMPUS

Early Morning Blaze Causes Great Deal Of Excitement

The shrill fire siren rent the air at 3:50 o'clock Saturday morning of last week. The fire was discovered to be a clothes closet of the Raffo home on the corner of Winchester street and Crocker avenue.

Mrs. Vernango and Mrs. Raffo were awakened the sound of coughing by little Bobby Vernango. The bedroom was filled with smoke, causing the little fellow to choke and gasp for air. The child's mother ran across the street to the home of Fire Chief Andrew P. Chesney to notify

GRAND LIST OF STAKES ARRANGED FOR HOME TRACK

Marchbank Handicap To Be Headline In Tanforan Spring Racing

The Tanforan management has announced its stakes program for the spring meeting of sport to open Saturday, March 7. Owners of large stables at Santa Anita have already expressed their hearty endorsement of the pretentious list of features and it is altogether likely a number of the best horses will be shipped to Tanforan from the south.

In line with the policy established long ago of naming events for the chief upbuilders of racing, such as the Belmont Stakes in New York and the Widener Cup in Florida, the Marchbank Handicap, named for the man who restored the great sport in California, hereafter will be run at each spring session at the San Bruno course.

The stakes are as follows:

Maugural Handicap, March 7, $2,000 added, 6 furlongs.

San Francisco Handicap, March 14, $5000 added, one mile and one furlong.

California Bred 2 year old Championship, March 17, $1500 added, 4 1-2 furlongs.

Tanforan 3 year old Championship, March 21, $2500 added, one mile.

Tanforan Juvenile Stakes, March 28, $2000 added, 4 1-2 furlongs.

Marchbank Handicap, April 4, $10,000 added, 1 1-16 miles.

Peninsula Handicap, April 11, $2500 added, one mile.

All of the stakes are scheduled for Saturdays, except the California Bred 2 year old Championship, which will be run on St. Patrick's Day.

GIVE HONORS TO HOME BALL CLUB

The Daly City Tanforan baseball club has been chosen to meet Regal Amber club, on February 9 at the Seals Stadium, in the semi-final event on the card arranged by the committee in charge of the James Nealon Benefit Fund.

As our local team are the undisputed champions of the Recreation "AA" League and the Regal Amber club the class of the Valley League, a hard fought contest is expected. The game will be called at 12 noon. Following this game at 2 o'clock two teams of major league all stars one led by Joe Cronin and the other by Dick Bartell, will play for the benefit fund.

All proceeds will be turned over to the fund for the care of injured semi-pro ball players of San Francisco and vicinity.

Our own Daly City Band will be on hand to lend encouragement to the boys by giving them a toot or two.

COUNCILMAN JOHN FAHEY EXPLAINS ORDINANCE VOTE

Believes People Should Be Given Opportunity To Express Opinion

Daly City California,
January 28, 1936.

Mr. William E. Pitschke,
Editor Daly City Record,
Daly City, California.

Dear Sir:

The newly passed Civil Service Ordinance of the City of Daly City is the subject of much discussion pro and con.

My negative vote on said ordinance, particularly, has been the subject of considerable discussion and it therefore becomes imperative that I state my case so that through silence it may not be held that I admit or consent to some of the things charged to me in certain circles and by certain persons.

I voted "NO" on the Daly City Civil Service Ordinance for the following reasons and for the following reasons alone, to-wit:

First, and most important, because in my opinion legislation of this character should be submitted to a vote of the people, especially in view of the fact that a municipal election will be held in the near future and no additional expense to the city will be involved in submitting such an important measure to the good judgment of the people. The people should express their view on this or-

COUNCIL PASSES ANTI FIREWORKS ORDINANCE HERE

Chamber Crowded With Citizens To Listen To Proceedings

The City Council of Daly City convened in regular session at the City Hall, Monday evening of this week. All members were present.

An unusually large number of citizens was in attendance, and these entered into the spirit of the affair with much zest.

A communication from the City Ice Delivery Company stated that the total valuation of the property located in this city was $500, and requested taxes be levied on that valuation. The matter was referred to the city assessor.

Daly City Post No. 410, American Legion, invited the council members to attend the initiation ceremonies of the Legion on Wednesday evening of this week. The invitation also stated the Sons of the American Legion of Daly City would install officers at the same time and at the same place —Eagles Hall. The bid was accepted.

A letter from Congressman J. J. McGrath stated he had voted for the bill to pay veterans adjusted compensation certificates immediately.

A communication from the Daly City Aerie of Eagles requested the council to do all in its power to see that Mission street was put in safe condition, and especially to attempt to secure raised safety zones.

The Crocker Masonic Lodge asked that consideration be given to widening of Hillcrest drive by reducing the width of sidewalks, thereby putting that street in a more safe condition for traffic. The communication stat-

BRAKES BAD—HE GETS BAD BREAK

Monday of this week was blue Monday for Tom Tromberg, 28, of Santa Cruz avenue. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving as the result of a collision which occurred at San Jose avenue, near Bepler street, about 7:45 o'clock that evening.

Tromberg's car struck and broke a wooden trolley pole and then careened into an automobile owned by Gordon Cole, 701 Silliman street, San Francisco, which was parked on Bepler street nearby.

Tromberg was treated at the Villa Sanatorium for lacerations of the right arm.

CONSERVATISM MARKS ROOSEVELT PROGRAM

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Reaction has not the least chance of getting back into the saddle. As President Roosevelt said in his Jackson Day address, our frontiers today are economic, not geographical, and the task of conquering them from the forces of privilege and greed is as arduous as was the conquest of the geographical frontier a hundred years ago. But, with the chief executive leading, the people will not retreat. What is more, they'll win out.

One hurdle the enemies of the President can't get over is just this: he's a conservative. By temperament, training, and influences that have surrounded him all through life, he holds tenaciously to what is good in the past and upon that foundation is building for the future. It is nothing more or less than social evolution of the most enlightened kind.

There are two sorts of conservatives, the reasonable conservative and the rabidly unreasonable conservative. It goes without saying President Roosevelt is highly reasonable.

Unprejudiced observers analyze the situation somewhat in this manner: The President has the support of three main groups, the "dyed-in-the-wool" Democrats of the South, the farmers, and industrial workers. Opposed to him are most of the big manufacturers and financiers.

The manufacturer places himself in an anomalous position in fighting the President and his policies, as there is not the slightest tinge of the radical in the Rooseveltian makeup. He believes, as has often been pointed out, as firmly as any manufacturer in New England or elsewhere, in private ownership and private enterprise. What he sees, however, is that private enterprise will survive only if changes are made in the social order. The changes may be termed concessions by "entrenched greed" to consumers, employes and all the varied interests represented in the authority of the government.

President Roosevelt is in the dilemma of requiring almost fundamental changes in federal procedure and of achieving that aim without amending the constitution. From the time of Lord Bryce down to the present students of our institutions have noted, many with amazement, the unwillingness of the American people to "tamper" with the constitution, as it is called. That, in face of the patent truth that the political structure of the country is no longer strong enough to contain its economic substance.

Not so long ago a social economist declared he did not expect the President to battle for a change in the constitution to make it more flexible to meet conditions of the present technological period. His reason was that the President, as we have been saying, has a wholly conservative outlook.

Granted that the President retains the support of most of the groups that supported him at the last election with the customary defections of the abnormally selfish and that some of business leaders will finally see he is trying mightily to help them his re-election is assured.

Bankers admit the federal government saved them in 1933 and with that thought percolating in a sufficient number of heads it is probable a united effort against the re-election of the Democratic standard bearer will not be made in the financial ranks.

The bankers announced at their recent national convention they were studying all the emergency lending agencies of the federal government to judge which of the lending activities could be taken over by the banks. That's what is needed. More of that kind of vision among the financiers will increase the strength of the chief executive of the nation.

PERSISTENCE IS VIATAL IN REARING WINNERS

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Even though the number of mares accounting for great races is small in comparison with stallions their careers are always interesting, though perhaps their racing is only preliminary to entering the breeding paddock. Right now Quashed is mentioned as a likely contender in the Ascot Gold Cup next summer. How does it happen we are talking about a race so distant both in time and geographically?

The American bred Omaha is in England undergoing training for the Ascot Gold Cup and wherever fans gather his future naturally is under discussion. Quashed is supposed to be one of the Britishers that will make the American know he has been in a race when they get going in the two mile and a half journey.

It's an old story that only one mare—Regret—has won the Kentucky Derby since its first running in 1875, quite a spell in the past. Six mares have scored in the Epsom Derby, which was instituted as long ago as 1780. As to the Gold Cup, none of the female sex has been first since St. Simon's daughter, La Fleche, was the victor in 1894.

It is hardly a good policy to discard matrons simply because their produce, if any, seem to be of little account for several seasons. Warrawee, in the Sydney Referee, recently told of the remarkable case of Dongola, which was almost a failure at the stud until 18 years old. Dongola, by the way, was by the Epsom Derby winner Doncaster. And Omaha, an international figure, traces in the tail male to Doncaster, through Gallant Fox, Sir Gallahad III, Teddy, Ajax, Orme, Ormonde and Ben d'Or.

Dongola, when sent to the court of Loved One, produced Gondolette. One could not expect buyers of likely prospects to rave over a filly from Dongola and accordingly Gondolette was disposed of for the small sum of $375. After winning a few minor events Gondolette went into the breeding paddock and from her came a number of good horses. Her daughter Serenissium, for example, produced the St. Leger winner Tranquil. She herself was the dam of the Epsom Derby winner Sansovino.

My stallion War Cry, which is doing as well as I anticipated, when mated with daughters of my stallion King Heather, is by the Epsom Derby winner Sunstar and, as is well known, Sunstar was by Sundridge from the Loved One mare Doris. I simply point that out to show the blood at Heather Farm is famous the world over.

PIONEER WOMAN IS SURVIVED BY LOCAL RESIDENTS

The deceased came to live in Daly City with her two sons and a daughter 28 years ago.

The funeral will be conducted from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., Saturday (tomorrow) morning, thence to St. Michael's Church, where a requiem mass will be said for the repose of her soul.

Interment at Holy Cross Cemetery.

NEW POLITICAL CLUB IS TO BE FORMED HERE

Young Democrats Of County Meet In Daly City This Week

The first meeting here of the Young Democratic Club of San Mateo County was held on Tuesday of this week at the American Legion Hall, Daly City. The meeting was called to order by Fred R. Linser, who, after introductory remarks, turned the meeting over to the president, Owen McCue, who ably carried the meeting through in a very instructive manner.

Among the several speakers of the evening were Alphonse Zirpoli, state president of the Young Democratic Clubs; Leland Lazarus, president of the Young Democratic Club of San Francisco; Robert Higgins, national committeeman; Paul Selmi, Daly City councilman; W. E. Pitschke, of the Daly City Record.

Roscoe Norrington, former secretary of the Salinas Chamber of Commerce, spoke at length upon the subject of constitutional actions, calling attention to the fact that the propaganda spread by the opponents of the present administration is such as would bear deep consideration and much study before any serious thought should be given to it.

One of the primary purposes of this meeting, held in Daly City, was to further the advancement of the club, and the party in particular. A concerted movement is on foot to form a Young Democratic Club of Daly City, and efforts will be made to have this important subdivision formed and in working order within the next two or three weeks.

The next meeting of the Young Democrats of San Mateo County will be held on February 6 at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, San Mateo, California. A cordial invitation is extended all who desire to attend this meeting and become active in the furtherance of the "Forward with President Roosevelt" movement. Under his inspiring guidance, great strides have been made to resume active business normally, and with his further inspiration we shall not lose.

Full particulars relative to the formation of the Young Democrats of San Mateo County and Daly City can be obtained by contacting Fred R. Linser, who will be glad to explain in full the work to be done this spring and fall.

If you wasn't there, you missed something. The editor thinks it one of the most enjoyable affairs of the kind he ever had the pleasure of attending.

him. While the chief was dressing, Mrs. Chesney phoned to the local police department. The officer on duty sounded the alarm through an instrument installed in that department.

Members from the Companies 1 and 4 responded and, with the assistance of Chief Chesney and Assistant Chief Bodien, the blaze was soon under control.

The home was so filled with smoke that Mrs. Vernango and her two children and her mother, Mrs. Clara Raffo, spent the balance of the morning at the Chesney home.

When Chief Chesney and the fire boys were ready to leave, Assistant Chief Bodien said he thought he heard someone moaning in the house. Together they went through each room. On the floor under the kitchen stove they found the family cat stretched out as if dead. Bodien brought the animal out in the air, where it came to immediately, bearing out the old adage about the cat and his nine lives.

The interior of the home was badly damaged much of the family clothing was ruined by smoke and flames.

JUST A PAIR OF OLD SHOES WORN FIFTY YEARS AGO

Last Friday afternoon, a stork shower in honor of Mrs. Myron G. Cropsey, at the home of her in-laws in Oakland, was an event that will always hold an important place in the memory of a prospective grandmother—Mrs. W. E. Pitschke of Daly City.

The table where refreshments were served was daintily decorated in pink and blue. A large pink baby shoe with lacings of blue ribbon formed the center piece and the shoe was filled with appropriate gifts for the expected little one. Tiny shoes in miniature, filled with mixed candy, favored each place at the table.

A friend of Mrs. Cropsey's grandmother presented the little spoon. A small pair of leather shoes, showing signs of much wear, was presented by Mrs. Pitschke. These had been worn by herself when a baby, many years ago; also by Mrs. Cropsey, who promises that not only will they be worn by her youngster, but by her grandchildren as well.

A large life like stork guarded the basinet, a gift from the two grandmothers to be, looking very wise indeed, for had he not already presided over many a shower? Yes; and being so well shaped and having performed his past official duties so efficiently, he will, no doubt, continue to serve in that capacity for how long—who can tell.

Mrs. Myron G. Cropsey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pitschke, 416 Irvington street, Daly City.

PRETENTIOUS PLAY COMING TO LOCAL HOUSE

Took Three Years To Finish Next Attraction At Our Theater

"Hell's Angels," the most pretentious picture that has come out of Hollywood, will be the featured attraction at the Daly City Theater, starting Sunday, for three days—Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, February 2, 3 and 4.

More than 137 pilots, planes and mechanics were used in filming the air sequences of "Hell's Angels," and in one scene alone 50 planes are shown in free-for-all combat in what is admittedly one of the greatest achievements in the history of film-making.

Two years were devoted to the filming of air scenes alone, neither time nor expense was spared to make this air drama the most realistic and spectacular entertainment ever put on the screen.

Aside from its unsurpassed thrills in the air, "Hell's Angels" has one of the most unusual love stories ever presented to the public.

The romantic interest revolves around the feminine screen sensation, Jean Harlow.

Playing opposite Miss Harlow in "Hell's Angels" are Ben Lyon and James Hall. A stupendous cast of some 20,000 others contribute to the drama of this record-breaking spectacle.

The second attraction is May Robson and Henry Armetta in "Three Kids and A Queen."

Pete Smith's laugh riot, "How To Sleep," will also be shown.

Paul's Amateur Show—Sunday.

RETIRED FIRE FIGHTER FETES FORMER PALS

Old Friends Get Together At Party Given By Comrades

On last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dormoy of Mission circle gave a dance and buffet supper to the members of Station No. 1 and about one hundred of their numerous friends.

Mr. Dormoy had the honor of being captain of Station No. 1 for several years, and, although retired from the active list, still likes to meet his old comrades and friends; and, sad to relate, after making all arrangements for the party he was stricken with an attack of influenza. But Pete sent his best wishes to everybody and told them to enjoy themselves.

The first part of the evening was enjoyed by dancing and at midnight a buffet supper was served and enjoyed by all, after which dancing was resumed until everybody was tired and satisfied.

Besides the personnel of Station No. 1 being present, the mayor, members of the city council, officers of the Fire Department and officers of the Police Department with their wives, were also among those attending.

Mrs. Dormoy proved to be an excellent hostess and managed to fill Pete's place quite ably.

IN THE new homes you have seen being built everywhere during the past year—nine out of ten are equipped for gas heating. Why? The answer is that gas heating equipment gives more real value, is less expensive to buy than any other type of heating equipment which will do the same satisfactory heating job.

The owners or builders of these new homes did not buy blindly. They learned the facts about gas heating from architects and contractors. In first cost modern gas heating equipment is less. In operation there are no complicated gadgets—in fact gas heating equipment is as easy to operate as a kitchen gas range.

One year from now or ten years from now, the owners of these new homes will be just as enthusiastic about gas heating as they are right now. Year after year nothing can give as much comfort, convenience and all 'round satisfaction. Why not investigate gas heating for your home? Take advantage of the exceptionally easy purchase terms now in effect for all types of gas heating equipment. You can afford gas heating. It costs no more than old-fashioned methods of heating.

Progress Made in Berlin
Preparatory to Olympics

The Olympic games will take place in the 300-acre Reichssportfield situated in the west end of Berlin. The huge stadium, which is 85 per cent completed, has seats for 100,000 spectators. The stadium arena contains a running track 400 meters long. The swimming stadium contains a 65-165-foot pool, a large restaurant overlooking the pool.

The Dietrich-Eckert open-aid theater in the form of a Greek bowl will be used for dramatic productions and assemblies. The Olympic bell which will peal to open the games is of steel and weighs 16 tons. It was removed from its casting last August. The altar on the stadium tower will be lighted on August 1, of this year, by the Olympic fire, the flame of which will be brought from the site of the original Olympic games by 3,000 runners who will travel in relays.—Washington Star.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

LET THE PEOPLE RULE

Never waning in popularity is the notion of a government "of the people, for the people, and by the people." All right thinking citizens like to believe they are part of a majority which is the final arbiter of all legislation that affects nation, state, county, city, or any other political subdivision.

Oftentimes this opportunity to so decide is wrested from the masses and held temporarily by some political schemer, through chicanery, cajolery or some other artifice—for the personal aggrandizement and enrichment of the master of political legerdemain or the "gang" he has built up around him to do his bidding. Sooner or later, however, the people—the real rulers—"catch up with him" and he finds himself "out on a limb." In fact, the would-be sovereign is through and shorn of his prestige.

The fashion of dictators (self appointed and self established) is definitely a thing of the past. The idea of governmental gods or idols has passed into the discard.

It often occurs that the majority of the citizenry of a community set up some official as a visionary idol and worship him under the misguided belief that the individual has benefitted some of the members of the community in time of need or stress, when, as a matter of fact, that official was only acting as "spender" for some man with enough modesty to refrain from flaunting publicly the beneficences he has bestowed.

Thus the "self advertised benefactor" reaps the appreciation and praise which really belongs to another.

It is to be hoped the people of this community will ever be alert to their responsibilities of self government, and never again be entrapped by the pitfall of following and worshipping any false political idols.

We are of the firm conviction that all important legislation in this community should be submitted to the people at an election, so they may have the privilege of expressing their preference or disapproval of any measure of moment which affects their welfare.

THE PUBLIC VOICE

Opinions Of Citizens For Which The Editor Gives No Sponsorship

The following communication to the editor is printed (the same as all signed articles) as the opinion of the writer, and in no way reflects the opinion or sponsorship of the Record or its editor. Here is the communication:

I have read a circular distributed in Daly City, purportedly in behalf of the volunteer firemen for civil service. Beside the question whether civil service is beneficial or not, my purpose is to give you my opinion in regard to the firemen. As a former fireman and as a student of the fire service, I am of the opinion that the firemen are unknowingly being duped into being used as a cat's paw in order that Mr. Smith can put over his shady civil service ordinance. What would be the effect on the public mind if a similar circular was distributed, attached thereto all the names of the salaried employees of the city. A circular such as the firemen have distributed is for the purpose of covering up and making it appear that something is being denied to the firemen, when in reality it does not give the firemen any more than they are getting now, for the circular states that under civil service the firemen will retain what little compensation there is for the firemen's services. The circular also states in the first paragraph, that the civil service movement (might) vitally affect the firemen, which means that the firemen are not sure of the benefits. Mention of that time worn phrase of Mr. Smith's (It is with that thought in mind) that we call your attention to the following facts—not all of the facts, however. Let us see what are the true facts in so far as the volunteer firemen are concerned with the administration, who is at this time so deeply interested in the welfare of the firemen.

The following is what the firemen can truthfully tell the people: In 1922 Mr. Smith was asked to place the firemen on a paid call basis, as they are now getting; this was denied time after time. In 1928 the firemen asked to be placed on a dollar a year basis of pay; this was also denied. And during all this time the firemen had an uphill battle with the administration to secure proper tools to fight fires with, very much to their disgust.

In 1934 the firemen again asked the administration to place the firemen on a paid call basis for actual service, and again were denied the privilege. The firemen then made preparations to place the subject matter on the ballot. Mr. Smith sensed what would happen if the firemen went to the people with their cause, so the administration granted the firemen a limited sum for actual service pay. However, attached to this grant was a stipulation that the pay would be tried out for one year to see how it worked.

Mr. Smith was not sure, even then, that if the city paid the firemen it would be good business for the firemen. It did prove good for the firemen, and in 1935 the same amount was set aside for service pay.

The firemen had to threaten the city fathers with the voice of the people before any action was taken in behalf of the men in the service.

Today the city fathers are threatening the firemen with the loss of their call service pay if they refuse to prevent the people to voice their opinion, for the sole purpose of the firemen's circular is to help the administration's desire to place all Smith appointees on a permanent salaried basis while the firemen who are not salaried employes are made the go-between.

I believe and know from personal experience that the firemen do not owe the administration one iota of thanks for their efforts towards the welfare of the service men. The proof of that statement is that Mr. Smith always had very much money for the police department, but had but very, very little money for the fire department. Mr. Smith's circular—I believe it was he that wrote it—states that the firemen should not be expected to engage in local politics and then in the next breath in the circular he tells the firemen that they should take away from the people their right by ballot of referendum. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure out what makes sense in that circular. In San Francisco you find the most politics done in the police, fire, public works and Municipal Railway departments, and all men and women in this service are civil service. When Mr. Smith says, that in fairness to your fire boys, he means in fairness to his self appointed salaried city employees. I am writing this, merely so that you may know what the status of the firemen has been prior to the passage of the civil service ordinance. I have no fault to find in the placing of firemen under civil service if it makes possible the assurance of young capable firemen for service, and this also applies to the police department. You as an editor have your own opinions and should use them for the best interests of the people in the community. I am not to be the judge, however.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, February 2, on the subject "Love."

The Golden Text will be: "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth" (I John 3: 18). Bible selections will include the following passage from I John 4: 16: "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "The precise form of God must be of small importance in comparison with the sublime question, What is infinite Mind or divine Love? . . . . No form nor physical combination is adequate to represent Infinite Love. A finite and material sense of God leads to formalism and narrowness; it chills the spirit of Christianity" (p. 256).

BOYS ENGAGE IN SAUSAGE BUSINESS

Two well known local boys, Leonard J. Mohr and Martin F. Mohr of Whittier street, recently purchased the "Reliable Home Sausage Factory," at 517 Castro street near eighteenth.

It has been the life ambition of their father, Joseph M. Mohr, to see his sons establish in the business he started out in many years ago. "Congratulations, Joe!"

Leonard has taken over the management of the factory and Martin is the outside sales manager.

The Mohr Bros. hope their many friends will remember the famous "Sunny Brook Sausages" when they plan parties, banquets and picnics. The fine taste of these famous sausages makes them a never forgotten delicacy at any meal.

The boys have a host of friends in Daly City who wish them the best of good luck in their new venture.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS

(By W. J. Lehigh)

The meetings of Old Glory are getting bigger and better all the time. At every meeting one or two new members take the obligation. This is fine work for the recruiting committee. All members who miss meetings don't know what they are passing up. Good refreshments are served after every meeting and a sociable evening may be enjoyed by attending a meeting. You can never tell what's going to happen on a meeting night of Old Glory.

The Martha Washington Contest is in full swing now and every member can do his or her part to help our candidate, Sister E. Dorn. Every vote counts, Comrades, and Mrs. Dorn is off to a good start and stands every chance of being elected.

The Auxiliary drill team is endeavoring to win a prize at the Washington Fete on February 22, and Comrade Collins is putting the team to a severe test every Wednesday evening at the City Hall in Daly City. The ladies are doing wonderfully in their drills and no doubt will capture a prize at that function as well as at San Bernardino this year.

The Degree Team is in for a busy season also and promises to do well at various affairs. The first pleasant duty of the team is Tuesday evening, February 4, at the Veterans building in San Francisco, where they will officiate in presentation of the Colors to a new Post. There are many future events, too numerous to mention at one writing.

Comrade Lewis of the degree team has taken leave of absence, to visit his home in the south. Pleasant travels, Comrade Lewis.

Watch the Post papers for dates and news and don't forget the next meeting, Friday, February 14.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

FIRE PREVENTION

By Chief A. P. Chesney

It must be borne in mind that buildings and commodities ravished by flames are gone forever and that while burned property may be replaced it can never be restored. Even where indemnity in the form of insurance has been provided, fire nevertheless causes a definite loss to society besides withdrawing the reimbursing funds from productive uses.

When fire destroys property all the labor, time and materials represented by a finished product or structure are wasted.

A FIRE A MINUTE

Although conflagrations such as those that have been described in the former articles do terrific damage within a short space of time, and sometimes cause losses running into hundreds of millions, it is the day by day burning that has piled up the huge totals reached during recent years.

Since 1918 there has been an average of a fire a minute occurring somewhere in the United States, with consequent losses ranging from a few dollars to excessive sums.

More on fire waste next week.

MOODY-SANKEY DAY IN GRACE CHURCH

Honoring the name of D. L. Moody and Ira Sankey, eveangelists of the past. Grace Presbyterian Church will observe Moody and Sankey Day Sunday. In the morning service Rev. John R. Stevenson will preach on Moody's favorite text and the service will use some of his most famous Gospel songs, including the Glory Song. In the evening Moody and Sankey songs will be sung, the choir also taking part and the pastor will speak on John 5:24. Young people of the community are invited to attend the young peoples' meeting at 7.

LOCAL DENTISTS HAVE NEW REMEDY

The Dental profession of Daly City, abreast with modern science, wishes to announce the new chemical formula of Doctor Leroy L. Hartman of New York is available to all patients.

The "magic water," and, "miracle juice," so called, is a solution consisting of three chemicals — sulfuric ether, thymol and ethyl alcohol, the physio-chemical action of which when in contact with dentin alleviates pain.

Duration of action is about twenty minutes, allowing the dentist to prepare a cavity with minimum discomfort to the patient. More than one application may be used to prepare the same cavity.

RELIGION IN THE NEWS

(By Rev. Miles Dawson)

The first part of this week I spent in a conference of Baptist ministers who came from all parts of California and Nevada. I purposely noted the emphases of the various speakers, and sought to find the mind of the ministers of the churches today? I found a well-rounded program in the churches and aims of this denomination. There was the social emphasis, the appeal being made to the ministers to realize the problems of the community, and to forget inter-and non-denominational differences to the extent of working together to the welfare of the people about the local churches.

There was also the cultural appeal, emphasizing the fact that education is becoming so universal in this day, it behooves the ministers of the gospel to further study and thought, in order to minister to the bulk of the people in an effective way.

The final, and to my mind important, emphasis was upon the spiritual need in the pulpits of protestantism today. One speaker of the conference emphasized the need for an "expository minister," wherein ministers will speak not so much upon the Bible, as preaching the Bible, itself. Substitutionary doctrines foreign to the Bible are not satisfying to the human soul, and the supreme emphasis on the church today, regardless of denomination or name, must be upon the Bible.

YOUNG HOME BALL PLAYERS TO GET CHANCE

Sacramento Club Asks Youths To Try Out At One Of Camps

Youthful baseball players of Daly City who believe they have the ability to pursue a professional career will have the opportunity to attend one of two trial camps which the Sacramento Baseball Club will conduct with a view of recruiting players for the team.

The first camp will be held at Fresno and will open February 3 and run through February 9. The second camp will be held at Riverside and will open on February 10. Following the camp at Riverside, the players that are retained will remain for the regular spring training period, under the tutelage of manager Bill Killefer.

Officials of the Senators, which were recently acquired by the St. Louis Cardinals, have asked that all local boys who desire a trial report to either of the camps on the opening day.

Those players who are retained from the Fresno camp will be taken to Riverside at the club's expense, and all players who are signed to contracts will have their original expense of attending the trial camp refunded.

Joseph W. Ziegler, secretary of the club, requests that all players desiring information about the camp write him at the Hotel Sacramento in Sacramento and he will send complete information on the camps.

A number of the best known baseball scouts in the country will pass judgment on the players in camp. Charlie Barrett, dean of Cardinal scouts, Joe Schultz and Billy Southworth, former major league stars, and Ira Smith, manager of the Houston, Texas, club, are all experienced in selecting material from camps such as these and are well qualified for the jobs.

It has been announced that these players who have major league possibilities, but are too young or inexperienced to play in the Pacific Coast League, will be signed to contracts by other clubs of lower classification whithin the Cardinal organization.

DALY CITY ROD AND GUN CLUB

(By "Bill" Grantham)

The Daly City Rod and Gun Club, at their last regular meeting, enacted a very colorful installation of officers. With "Bob" Mann as guest and Master of Ceremonies, our officers were inducted into office.

Our new president for 1936 is Les Langford; Ed Moore, vice president; Dick Ennis, secretary; L. Rusting, treasure; H. Gambler, sergeant at arms and custodian, and "Bill" Grantham as editor. He took office and vowed to serve faithfully and well.

Retiring President Arthur Bodien was presented with a beautiful light tackle rod. Blushing furiously and speechless, he admitted he hoped to catch more fish with same than he had with his heavy outfit. Here's luck, Arthur.

The meeting was well attended, with quite a number of sport celebrites present. The usual feed followed.

The past week end did not develop much in the way of fishing, owing to the high and muddy water following the heavy rains. However, it did not stop two of our members from catching fish. Leo Kusber and A. J. Gaggero motored to Little Honker Bay last Sunday and, although losing several stripers, were successful in hooking five fish, the largest seven pounds. It might be well to state at this time that it is well nigh impossible to hook stripers with "drag sinkers." Use sliding sinker on your line above leader, as the least resistance when the striper "nibbles" means losing your fish. At this time of the year and when waters are extremely cold the striper is a very light feeder. The coming week end looks good, especially around Honker Bay, Antioch and Montezuma Slough. As stated in a previous issue of Daly City Record, all regular meetings will be held on the third Friday of each month.

LOCAL DRUM CORPS WINS COMPETITION

Two special train loads of Eagles from the bay area were Sacramento bound last Sunday to witness the Field Music Competition Drill to be held in that city.

The Colma Vista Grande Drum Corps No. 1848, carried off first honors. To say they are a proud and happy group is putting it mildly.

Among those present on that happy occasion were Francis Bracken, Eric Diebel, Alec Cameron, Harry Hutchings, Mike Reardon, Dean Schrieber, Lamar Johnson, Louis Varni, Harold White, William Brush, Bill Wright, Isadore Mendelson, J. Kleese, K. Bowen and Carl Nelson.

LOCAL PITCHER BEATS ALL STARS

The old hometown boy came through again, last Sunday, where he held the stadium League All Stars to 4 runs and 4 hits to end up in a tie.

Lola Petrocchi was at his best on the mound for the Daly City Tanforans, who tangled with the pick of the Stadium League teams at Seals Stadium.

The home boys also had on their hitting togs, getting nine to the four gathered by their opponents. The game was well played throughout.

Even after this, Garth had to bear the brunt of the heavy work. Much of the time the others were forced to stop off, to get the cramp out of their knees or rest their arms. And when they paddled, their unskillful stroke kept Garth twisting his own stroke to keep the canoe from being swerved from side to side like a ship with the yaws.

Had work been the only consideration, he would as soon have done it all. There were, however, reasons for more speed than he could make alone with the heavily loaded skin-covered craft. The summer was now far along. The days were rapidly shortening, the nights becoming colder and darker.

Delay would mean a serious chance of being caught in early autumn blizzards. Even Lilith Ramill might not be able to survive an all-day drive of sleet. Such a storm would undoubtedly kill her father and, not improbably, Huxby also. Persistent use of the paddles would continue the toughening of the three chechahcos. It would also quicken the speed of the canoe as they acquired skill from practice.

He himself kept to his stroke like the born voyager he was, dipping his paddle for hour after hour. His steady pull never varied except when, at long intervals, he shifted the paddle over to the other side. He stopped that clocklike stroke only when landings had to be made for food or sleep.

On the third day Lilith attempted to keep stroke with him. She paddled until so exhausted that she broke down and wept. After that Huxby quit less often, though he never came so near to overtiring himself.

They had twice camped on muskeg. The third afternoon brought them to broken ridges where the stream dashed through a gorge. So far as could be seen, the rapids looked easy to shoot. But Garth said it was a portage.

He slung a pack from his tump-line and took the canoe on his shoulders. The total load was a full two hundred and fifty pounds. At sight of it, the others took on all the rest of the meat and equipment. For miles Garth led them up and down rocky slopes, through brush and bogs. Twice they skirted sheer falls that showed why he had taken to land.

At last, below the lower fall, he launched the canoe in the eddy of a deep pool. The others sank down on the bank, outspent. He built a fire and boiled tea for them. They expected to camp overnight. He ordered them back into the canoe.

"Can't chance waiting here. May be too foggy to see tomorrow," he explained. "Sit flat in the bottom, and keep your paddles inboard."

They understood when a few strokes of his paddle brought the canoe to the foot of the pool. For a long two miles they crouched low in the bottom while the frail craft glanced down the foaming, swirling torrent of white water. Garth smiled at their cowering backs. He had often shot worse rapids, and he had been down these once before. Skillfully as an Athabaskan Indian, he drove the canoe clear of dangerous whirlpools and dodged past rocks with deft twists of his paddle.

At the foot of the rapids, he headed in alongside a bit of gravelly beach and helped Mr. Ramill and Lilith ashore. When he remarked that there was gold in the gravel, Huxby nearly upset the canoe in his haste to get out and look.

"Gold! Why didn't we bring the gold pan?"

Garth laughed and streached out on the dry grass above the gravel. "Gallant gentleman, your lady is building the fire."

"Don't mind him, Vivian," Lilith chimed in on the banter. "You can use the cup for panning. I need only the pot to boil Alan's tea."

Huxby glanced sidelong at Garth and hastened to help the girl. Her father had flattened out beside Garth. With a yawn, Garth stretched up his arms and let them fall. The left one came down across the millionaire's body. The back of the hand felt a lump under the leather coat. Huxby had not again gained possession of the pistol.

Nothing would have been easier than to have pulled out the weapon and flung it into the stream. The impulse to do so passed as quickly as it flashed into Garth's mind. He was not the kind of sportsman who shoots lions from a boma, or tigers from the backs of elephants. There is far more sport stalking a beast that has a chance to kill the stalker.

The chechahcos had now experienced the different phases of canoeing—days of paddling through muskeg, a portage, and the running of rapids. But all proved to be no more than a mild sample of the difficulties and hardships that followed. In the next two weeks three more rapids had to be shot and two very hard portages made. Between times, the canoe was paddled interminably through meandering channels that twisted and looped and split off in blind leads.

Down in the lower country, the pests of black gnats, mosquitoes and sting-time the flask of grease and pitch dope began to give out. Most of the camps were on wet ground. For days the party were drenched by a steady drizzle, varied only by downpours that kept Lilith and her father bailing the canoe.

Several times fog on the water compelled Garth to put ashore. Without sight, even his training could not enable him to follow the right channel. He was not an Indian. But between the forced halts, he put in still longer hours of paddling.

Matters were coming to a pinch. After the first wetting by the rain, what remained of the meat spoiled. It became so flyblown and tainted that Lilith threw it away before Garth could prevent the wastage. He decided to give them all another lesson.

In the fast that followed, Mr. Ramill was the first to fail. Huxby came next; Lilith last of the three. By the third day they had given up all paddling. On the fourth, they lay slumped in the bottom of the canoe. Garth only tightened his belt again and dipped his paddle in his strong, steady, seemingly tireless stroke.

Whenever he found himself nearing his limit, he headed ashore, boiled tea, slept, and then put off again. The fifth day began to draw on the last reserve of his wiry endurance. Towards noon he made the boggy shore, almost outspent. He dragged out the wolfskin knapsack anchor, with its load of platinum alloy. The girl and the two men lay in a stupor of starvation. He himself was so tired that he could not have lifted even Lilith ashore.

As he rested on the west sedges he recalled the place as one of his former camp sites. A spruce-covered ridge of higher ground here thrust out into the muskeg. The first remembrance brought another. The second gave him strength to pull his rifle from the canoe and climb aslant the ridge end. There was a berry patch on the east slope. The fruit would be better than nothing. He hoped, however, for something more.

Circling to get the wind in his face, he crept through the spruce thickets until he could peer out on the open ground of the berry patch. Luck was with him. The old black bear had gone off and left her cub. He rested the rifle barrel on a spruce branch to get a sure aim.

"Out of the Muskegs; but a Long Way From Out of This D—d North!"

That was the end of famine. Gorged upon the fat, tender meat of the bear cub, even Mr. Ramill rapidly regained strength. He was still rather weak, however, when they came to the last portage.

The approach to solid ground was across a narrow belt of muskeg. Near the far side of the swamp, the millionaire failed to jump squarely upon a tussock of niggerhead grass. He slipped and plunged headfirst into a pool.

Huxby was following close behind, alert for every move of his partner. He sprang to grasp the feet of the sinking man. A heave dragged him out, slimed and spluttering. Huxby worked over him, scraping off mud, until Lilith hastened back to help assist her father across the rest of the quagmire. Once on firm ground, the millionaire joked about his mishap.

"Haven't had a bath since the last rain," he said. "This one is higher class—equal to the mud baths at Hot Springs. How about my pack Lilith?"

She looked in his foxskin bag. "Everything there, Dad—with some mud added."

Garth had been too far ahead, with his heavy pack and canoe, to see or hear the accident. Mr. Ramill joked again about his extra bath when they took to the canoe at the far side of the portage. But all the time until they reached the evening camp and he started to wash the mud from the leather coat, he did not notice that the pistol was missing.

At the announcement of the loss, Huxby met Garth's gaze with a stare of cold hostility. Garth walked up to him, empty-handed.

"If you've done what I think you have," he said, "I call you for a showdown."

The engineer's lips tightened in an ironical smile. He put up his hands. Not to be fooled by the seeming bluff, Garth went over Huxby's tattered clothes, from coat collar to moccasins. The pistol was nowhere on the engineer.

"This is one time I'm due to apologize," Garth admitted.

"I accept no apology from you," Huxby replied.

Lilith looked from one to the other, her own lips tightening.

Mr. Ramill good-humoredly interposed, as he hung the washed leather coat before the fire: "Postpone your fight, boys. We're still in the muskegs. I'll built a cockpit for you when we get out."

That won a chuckle from Garth. Huxby smiled with his lips—not with his eyes. As Lilith looked from Garth to him, her eyes narrowed and her lips tightened.

CHAPTER VII

The Gaffed Wolf.

Mr. Ramill's good-humor over his fall into the muskeg pool had not been forced. It was based upon his feeling of physical well-being.

Instead of having been broken down by the hard toil and exposure of the trip and that severe lesson in the meaning of famine, he had come through it all in even better shape than before the start from the lost valley. The days of starvation had completed Nature's raid upon the degenerate fats and poisons of his once obese body.

There had followed the feasts of tender bear-cub meat. He was again putting on weight, but it was hard muscle. The healthy blood flooded his brain with a comfortable glow that was not to be dampened by any amount of toil or discomforts.

He was paddling as vigorously if not as skillfully as his daughter, when, mid-morning of the twenty-fourth day from the valley, the canoe neared a wooded point that rose well above the swamps. Garth called out from the stern of the canoe:

"If you want a surprise, friends, shut your eyes while we take ten strokes."

He knew that Huxby would keep on staring ahead. But he guessed right about Lilith and her father. At the end of the tenth stroke, the girl flung up her paddle and uttered a shriek of joyous amazement:

"The river! The river!"

Close upon the cry came the deep-lunged shout of her father: "By the Almighty, you've done it, Garth! We're out."

Huxby continued to stare fixedly ahead at the mighty flood of the Mackenzie. He was last to speak: "Out of the muskegs; but a long way from out of this d—d North!"

"Long by canoe or even by steamer," Garth agreed. "Not so far, though, by air passage. We can make the emergency supply post by two or three hours' paddling downstream."

"What of it? That fellow Tobin told us planes never stop there, unless foul weather runs them short of gas."

Garth met the suddenly anxious looks of Lilith and her father with a smile.

"All pilots have orders to sight nonstop posts in passing. Tobin has a distress signal. There'll be a plane coming south from the Arctic coast within three days—probably tomorrow. You'll be lying in the lap of luxury at Edmonton within a week or ten days."

The millionaire felt at the grease-and-pitch mat of his month-old beard. He chuckled. "A bath and a barber! Hand over that last cigar, Garth. Here's where I celebrate."

He opened the gold-mounted case, bit off the tip of the sole surviving Havana, and snapped his patent lighter. It failed to flair. He tossed it over into the water, and turned to Garth, with an impatient command: "Give me a light."

"Only two matches left, sir."

"Enough to light a cigar. Pass them over."

Instead of taking out his waterproof match case, Garth took up his paddle. "The rule is, never burn your last match until you have to. You've thrown away that little flint and steel. The fire-drill is all right in dry weather but hard to use in wet."

Huxby dipped his own paddle. "Come on, Mr. Ramill. By his own account, three hours more will rid us of him and his insolence."

"Wait," said Lilith. She pointed to the bank where the pleasant green of young spruces showed among the weathered white trunks of fire-killed birch trees. "If we have so much time, we'll land there and clean up."

"But—with the post so near, my dear Lilith!" Huxby protested. "That fellow Tobin had any amount of soap."

"All the more reason. I'll not have even a common navvy see me in this condition. The rags can't be helped. But the dirt!—" Out burst her suppressed loathing for all the grease and grime that smirched herself and the men. "Mud! slime! rancid fat! spoiled meat! Alan Garth, I know that I have to go in dressed like a squaw. But this—this filth!"

He surged the canoe around shoreward with a powerful sweep of his paddle.

"Not necessary, Miss Ramill. A scouring with hardwood ashes and sand will do the work of soap. We can go in sweet."

They landed where an ice jam of some spring break-up had gouged through the muskeg mud at the end of the ridge and left a clear beach of glacial sand and gravel. Up over the ten-foot cut bank, Garth started a fire with one of his two remaining matches.

Even Huxby joined in gathering other piles of fallen birch branches for more fires. While they were burning, Garth beached the canoe and tilted it so that the sun would dry the soggy inside. Huxby stirred the fires, and Mr. Ramill broiled the last of the partly spoiled bear-cub meat, while Lilith tried out a cupful of the rancid fat for a final mess of mosquito dope. Garth brought the girl pitch for the mix from the nearby thicket of young spruces.

No cleaning could be done until the fires burned out. When Mr. Ramill took off the spits of cooked meat, all squatted down as usual to share the meal. Garth smiled his thanks as he took the slab of hot meat handed to him by the millionaire. The smile hardened.

A sudden change had fallen upon his three companions. He could easily guess the cause. They realized that this was the last meal they were to share as fellow voyageurs with him.

The moment they stepped from the canoe onto the wharf at the emergency refueling post, their forced companionship with him in the lost valley and on all the long trip out would be at an end. Instead of a trio dependent upon their opponent for food and guidance—for life itself—they would be a trio not only independent of, but hostile to him and his interests.

That was at least true of the two men. And even Lilith betrayed in her look and manner a vivid consciousness of the impending change of relationship. As for Huxby, the cold gloating in his stare showed how he was anticipating the robbery and ruin of the man who had so far outplayed him.

Coronation of New King or Queen Is Great Event

A great thing to see in London is the crowning of a new king or queen. It does not happen often, but when it does it is an event to remember, says a writer in the Detroit News.

The actual crowning, or coronation, takes place in Westminster abbey and the archbishop of Canterbury is in charge of the ceremony. The new king sits in the famous Coronation chair, which is covered for the event with cloth-of-gold. He promises that he will govern by the laws made by the British parliament; that he will carry out a rule of justice and mercy; and that he will maintain the Protestant religion.

The Coronation chair dates back to the time of King Edward I, who ruled six and a half centuries ago. It is made of oak, but under the seat is "the Stone of Scone," which was taken away from Scotland during the reign of Edward. Before that the stone had been used during the crowning of Scottish kings.

There is a legend that the Stone of Scone was used as a "pillow" by Jacob, the Hebrew patriarch. The legend says that the stone was moved from Palestine to Ireland, and from there to Scotland before it fell into the hands of the English. There is reason to believe, however, that it was obtained from a quarry near Scone, a town in Scotland.

Underground Schools

Unlike Britain, where schools are built so as to admit as much fresh air and sunlight as possible, the Lapps burrow under the earth. Only the thatch or tiled roofs of their schools can be seen. The rest is all cellar. Sunlight does not matter, because for at least six months of the year it is perpetually dark, while for only three months does the sun shine continuously. Fresh air in the form of cutting blasts is most unwelcome, and in winter, spring, and autumn everything is done to keep it out. The atmosphere in Lapp schools, with every crevice blocked and heating apparatus full on, is more than English lungs could bear, but the people there are used to it.

Seneca Root

Seneca root or seneca snakeroot is a plant of the milkwort family known to botanists as Polygala senega and found growing mostly in rocky woods and on eroding hillsides. It is a smooth perennial plant with a short rootstock as thick as a lead pencil and rather thick roots. The roots and rootstocks have medicinal value.

The Great Fire of London caused damage estimated at $45,000,000. Each year, the damage caused by fires in Britain now exceeds that amount.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL KINDERGARTEN OPEN

Too much cannot be said in praise of the beautiful new kindergarten in the Jefferson School, and too much credit cannot be given to those mothers of the Colma P. T. A., through whose untiring efforts the kindergarten was reopened after a lapse of one and one half years.

Mrs. Dorothy Garibaldi, a past president, assisted by Mrs. Ramilda Grondona, made a house to house canvass and the fruit of their efforts was a list of twenty-five names of children of legal kindergarten age; making possible the reopening of the Jefferson School kindergarten.

The room is large, airy, sunny and the last word in comfort, convenience charm and beauty. All inspecting the kindergarten, have expressed pride and admiration.

TRIBUTE TO WELL RENDERED SERVICE

In the passing away of Mrs. Camille Benassini of Colma this community has suffered a deep loss, for she filled a place here, that no one else can fill. She will be sadly missed in her home, her church and the many organizations to which she belonged for she could always be counted on to do more than her share of service in a willing and gracious manner.

Camille Bassini was one of the founders of El Carmelo Parlor, N. D. G. W., Cypress Circle, U. O. A. D.; The Ladies Home Club of Colma and the Colma Community Center. She was an active worker in the American Red Cross, and was at all times ready to give assistance to any one in need who appealed to her.

Her quick intelligence, good humor and dependable loyalty were an invaluable asset to this community. We truly mourn her passing from us, but are grateful for having had the privilege of knowing her and associating with her. The memory of her beautiful character will abide with us many years.

NEW KIND OF FILM PORTRAYS ONLY ONE STAR

Dialogue In Russian And Titles In English Makes Picture Unusual

One of the most interesting and unusual motion pictures to be offered this season is now on view at the Clay International Theater through this week and next in the latest Russian creation, "The New Gulliver." This will be the only showing in northern California of this masterpiece. There are daily matinees and continuous performances on Saturday and Sunday.

"The New Gulliver" is, of course, an adaptation of Jonathon Swift's famous novel "Guliver's Travels," which for 200 years has been a best seller. The adaptation used retains all the inherent qualities of humor and satire of the original and makes "The New Gulliver" as fine entertainment for young and old as the book itself. The dialogue is spoken by players of the Moscow Kamerny Theater with full English titles for interpretation and special music for the film prepared by Lew Schwartz.

The novelty of "The New Gulliver" rests on the fact that only one actor appears in the film, a fourteen year old boy, and he is surrounded by some 3000 players about the size of a little finger, but so true to life in every attribute they seem actually alive. They are not marinettes in the true sense of the term for no strings or other mechanism is used to manipulate them, yet all the little people use the gestures and attitudes of a human being. Through a varied repertoire of heads distinct expressions are given them which makes them capable of expressing hate, love, anger, jealousy; in fact, the whole gamut of human expression. This is a new sort of film which is sure to have wide appeal.

CALVARY CHURCH SUNDY SERVICES

Tomorrow morning Pastor Miles Dawson will speak at the Calvary Baptist Church, 5724 Mission street, at both morning and evening services.

His 11 o'clock morning theme is on the subject "And Jesus Did Not Commit Himself." The choir will sing. At the 7:45 evening service, Pastor Dawson will speak on "Betraying Ideals." Special music is planned for this service.

JEFFERSON SCHOOL P. T. A. MEETING

The regular meeting of Colma Unit P.T.A. was held Tuesday of this week in the new Jefferson School with a large attendance of both members and visitors. After the regular business and fitting speeches by Miss Marie Traynor, the principal; R. L. Crane Jr. and C. Saiz, the members and visitors went on a tour of inspection of the new building and returned to the meeting room for home made cookies and punch, very well pleased with the new structure and thankful that their efforts had at last been accomplished.

LOCAL RESIDENTS BOOST DRUM CORPS

A large group of friends of the members of the Colma Vista Grande Drum Corps, No. 1848, returned the splendid exhibition put on by them in the Capitol City of Sacramento.

Among those present were A. J Gerstenberg, Bruno Conci, Spotts Nessier, H. Mendelson and Paul Reed.

BATTERY CABLE

When replacing a battery cable care should be taken to see that it is the size recommended by the car manfuacturer.

If the cable is too small it will not carry enough voltage to start the motor promptly under all conditions.

START EARLIER WHEN STREETS WET

It's sometimes quite safe to travel at a reasonably fast speed on a through, arterial street, but, on wet, winter days, it's a different story. Although drivers approaching through streets may have perfectly good intentions of stopping at intersections, the condition of the streets may seriously alter their plans. If the street is wet or icy, the car might not stop at all, but skid right into the fast speed lane. The results of such skidding are obvious.

To lessen accident possibilities, let us all resolve to start our journeys a few minutes earlier and take a little more time in reaching our destination when the streets and highways are in this dangerous condition.

WATCH OUT FOR FOG

Long a hazard to ship pilots, fog has grown to be as much a menace to motorists. Speed on streets and highways should be slackened from 10 to 15 miles per hour while fog is prevelant, and if its the "pea soup" variety, even slower speed is recommended.

Most accidents are preventable and by extreme care at the wheel, we can do much to overcome the fog peril. Let's be sure that there's no fog over our brains while coping with nature's misty blanket.

COUNCILMAN JOHN FAHEY EXPLAINS ORDINANCE VOTE

dinance and the will of the people should prevail. What good reason can there be for refusing to allow the people to express their will on this proposition? Can it be that someone is afraid to allow the people to decide such a matter?

Second—Sufficient opportunity and time was not given to look into the matter of establishing a Civil Service System in Daly City or to ascertain whether or not the ordinance proposed and adopted by the majority members was complete or incomplete. In this regard I might state that, although I am chairman of the Ordinance Committee of the City Council, I did not know that civil service was contemplated or that the proposed ordinance was even in existence until five or ten minutes before the meeting at which it was introduced.

I do not believe in railroading legislation through in this manner nor do I see the necessity of doing so, especially legislation of such vital importance as this.

Third—After a hurried study of the proposed ordinance I found many very objectionable features contained therein and many things that were not provided for. For example, the amount or percentage of salary on which persons are to be retired under pension should be stated. The ordinance is silent on this and many other things. It is my belief that this legislation should not be passed until it is decided that civil service is desirable, and then, if it is so decided, the setup under which it is to operate should be given great study and set forth in the ordinance so that it may be complete and all necessary features be contained therein.

My vote was not a vote against the Daly City firemen, the Daly City police, or any other group or persons. Anyone assigning any reasons for my vote on the Civil Service Ordinance other than those stated by me above is palpably in error, either deliberately so or otherwise.

I am sending this letter to you in the hope that you will print the same in your newspaper so that the people may know my side of the case as it really is.

Trusting that you will grant me the favor of printing this letter in your next issue of the Daly City Record, I am,

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. FAHEY,
City Councilman.

An ordinances amending sections 2 and 4 of Ordinance No. 190, providing for reorgaization of the Fire Department was introduced by Councilman Selmi and given first reading.

When Ordinance No. 201, prohibiting the sale or explosion of fireworks within the city limits, was called up for passage, considerable opposition developed. Merchants who have been dealing in fireworks in the past requested, personally and through an attorney, permission to dispose of the stocks they now have on hand. There was also opinion expressed that fireworks should be definitely and permanently prohibited here. The council voted adoption of the ordinance unanimously.

Ordinance No. 202, authorizing inspection by the police department of any premises where business is conducted under a license from the city, was also adopted by a unanimous vote.

Mayor Smith was authorized by the council to act as its representative on the committee for the President's Birthday Ball at Bay Meadows on Thursday of this week.
